Description

My name is Ethan Scofield and I am 15 and a sophomore at Southern High School. This is my first year showing market hogs with the Southern High School Future Farmers of America club. I am raising two duroc burrows (castrated males) who are litter mates, one I have named Harold and the other is named Gilbert. So far though my FFA experience I have learned the importance of communication and community outreach, I have also learned and realized how proud it can make someone to raise livestock naturally without any added hormones, steroids, or unnecessary antibiotics. I raise my pigs at the Rockhold Barn on Sudley road in West River, Maryland. I feed them Sunglo feed rations with varying levels of protein depending on the stage of life the pigs are in throughout their entire life.

This year and the events leading up to this Auction date is unprecedented as instead of having 5 or 6 shows throughout the summer, there have been only a few shows done through video conferencing and other online formats.

When I am not tending to my pigs, or the twins as I call them, I am working on my Eagle rank in boy scouts, working on my 5k time for cross country or my stamina and strength for wrestling, I also enjoy hiking and camping as well as reading books and watching classic films and creating art of all mediums.

Additionally i would like to thank my Family and fellow club members and peers from school who have supported me endlessly and answered all my innocent, ridiculous, and frustrated questions.
