Description

My major project in 4-H is photography. My favorite types of photography are nature, landscapes and animals. I like to experiment with different methods of photography. In the contest this year, I learned how to do forced perspective which is making something look bigger or smaller than it really is. The sunflowers pictured near the car makes the flowers look as big as the tires when they really are not. I had to get as low as I could to get the perspective to work.
