Description

Meet my goat project, Drago. I acquired him at the beginning of October when he weighed just sixty one pounds. After working with him for countless hours and feeding him the proper nutrition, Drago has exceeded my expectations. When I first began working with him, he refused to walk and was very hard headed. At the time, it felt next to impossible for this goat to walk just a few steps, but through perseverance and time, we learned to work together as a team in the show ring. One characteristic that I have developed from this project is how to have patience frustrating situations.
