Description

My name is Stephanie Van Ness and I am a proud member of Lodi FFA. This is my fifth and final year showing livestock, as I graduated from Lodi High in 2020 and now attend Fresno State University. For my project this year, I have raised a market steer. I have learned so much from showing livestock, not only about agriculture, but about myself. I have grown so much throughout my time in FFA and continue to pursue agriculture in college. The money I receive from my projects goes towards my college education, where I study animal science (pre-veterinary) in order to become a large animal vet. I greatly appreciate the support I get for my projects, and hope that people continue to support youth in agriculture!
