Description

My name is Brandt Hancock, and I am a senior at Hamshire-Fannett High School. I ordered 50 broilers through the YMBL to show at the South Texas State Fair this year. My initial thought was that this would be my best and easiest year since I've done it three times before this. I was definitely wrong. I started losing chicks almost immediately, which was not completely out of the ordinary from previous years, but I also started to notice that they were sneezing. With the help of my ag teacher, we identified the problem, but I ended up losing 22 chicks. I have kept the coop clean, as well as kept plenty of feed and water available. The temperature control has also been a challenge this year, as it has gotten hotter a lot earlier this year than in years past. The change from hot to cold, hot to cold has been difficult to regulate. I am excited to participate in the fair this year since this will be my last year to show broilers.

I showed my broilers, with the help of my parents, on March 24 and received 18th place! I was very excited to make the sale my last year.
