Description

This is my other trio that I raised. The only reason this trio received 3rd place while my other trio received reserve, is because the feathering was not as full as the other trios. Feathering is hard when a market chicken grows so quickly. This trio is the same quality as the trio that received a reserve placing. The first two components of a good trio are weights as close as possible and same sex/look. Both of these were accomplished with this trio. I also raise goats on my property. I was going to sell a goat in addition to my reserve trio but due to some miscommunication about the check-in, the 4-H staff wouldn't allow my goat in for the show. Showing animals in general is very hard and it is getting away from what is important, the kids. This will be my last auction since I am going to serve our country through an appointment to the USAFA. Next summer I will be at BT. I appreciate the time you have taken to read about my project. Thank you for your support.
