Description

My name is Erin Rabel, and I am a Senior in the Agriscience Magnet Program at James Madison High School. Currently, I am raising two pigs— 2 gilts — as well as a goat as part of my animal projects. Since August, I have been dedicated to their care every morning and evening, rain or shine. My responsibilities include feeding, cleaning pens, barn chores, daily walks, bathing, and maintaining their skin and overall health. Balancing school and my agricultural commitments not only to my animals but also to my FFA teams, District office, and veterinary job can be challenging, but my dedication to the world of agriculture keeps me going.

Raising 5 livestock projects and 2 guide dogs over the span of 4 years has taught me invaluable skills such as work ethic, responsibility, time management, budgeting, and the importance of learning from mistakes.

Looking ahead, my goal is to attend Texas A&M University in the fall! I am so excited to become a part of the Aggie family and am ready for the opportunity to grow!

I would greatly appreciate any donation, big or small, to help cover the costs of attending Texas A&M!

Thank you so much for your consideration and GIG 'EM!
