Description

This year was my first year raising lambs. I have been so invested since day one at raising a great lamb. I fell in love with sheep and cant wait to see what more projects do for me passion next year.

At the beginning of this year I started with a medium wool lamb we named Lizzo. She was a heavy weight and we doing great. The morning of our first show she was too anxious. She bit the and swallowed her 5in metal drench gun nozzle. We took her to the vet, she is ok but took a long break from training and eating right. That didn't stop me! I kept showing whether my own animal or others. I knew the more I worked at it the more I grew regardless of my lambs capability. During AMP Livestock Expo I was awarded Grand Champion Showmanship! I won my first belt buckle and was so proud to have my hard work recognized. Once the Junior Varsity season was over, I was given the opportunity to continue on as Varsity Lamb Showman for a few more shows. This was exactly what I was working for. With that also came a lamb that needed some development, Carrie. As a blue medium wool lamb she was a little light weight and scared. That didn't deter me either. We kept working and with that came ribbons and banners. I'm in love with the Lamb Project!

Along with Lambs this year I also decided to raise Broilers. I accepted the challenge of raising and showing Cornish Rock Market Broilers. Chickens are a little easier but do take a little more research and monitoring of their growth. They grow fast! With proper feeding and care they are very rewarding. We get 2 shows as Junior Varsity showman. Bexar County and Ag Fair. We learned so much and got to see some great projects.

Ag Fair is my last show of the season. It was a pleasure to show my lamb, broilers and join in on the baking competition. Even my Dad joined in on the BBQ competition. Even with some stiff competition, I was awarded 11th Pullets, 13th Cockerels, 4th Baking Bars, 7th Baking Pies, 3rd place Commercial Breeding Ewe and the only female student to compete and make it to the preliminary stages of Fastest Cutting Torch. Dad also won Grand Champion BBQ Competition for Ribeye Steak. I am so proud to have excelled as much as I have this year and can't wait to do it again next year. We are hoping to get to step up our game next year and add a few more projects.
