Description

Hello, my name is Jackson Moore and I am in my third year of showing and selling Market Turkeys. I am proud to present my Bronze turkey, Henry.

The project began in the spring when I received my turkey poult (young turkey) from Jill's feed in Elizabeth, CO. From that point on, I committed to caring for it daily to ensure it would be healthy and reach market weight in time for the fair.

Throughout this project, I learned how to properly feed and water my turkey, monitor its health, and clean and maintain its living environment. I paid close attention to its growth rate, adjusted its diet as needed, and kept detailed records of its weight and feed consumption. I also learned how to safely handle and show my turkey in the show ring.

Raising a turkey taught me a lot about responsibility, patience, and time management. I gained experience in animal husbandry, practiced biosecurity, and understood the importance of providing quality care to livestock raised for food production. This project has helped me grow as a 4-H member and develop skills that will benefit me in the future — both in agriculture and beyond.

The final step of this project is selling my turkey at the market livestock auction, where the proceeds will help me invest in my next years project.

Thank you for looking at my page.
