Description

My project this year has included raising a market-ready lamb. I decided to name him Willie Nelson. The reason behind his name is that he loved to "sing" to me in the mornings and at night. He always was looking for ways to get attention. A big struggle that I had with him was how smart he was. Within a month he started to figure that I gave him hay every other day. If I miss that routine and forget to give him hay, I will definitely hear about it from him. He is a special lamb that has my heart. He may get on my nerve a lot with his "singing" but I have come to learn that, that's his way of saying hello.
