Description

Hello, my name is Chase Burns. I am 18 years old and a senior at Tracy high school. This is my second year showing at Agfest, first year showing a market goat, which I found a new hobby for at fair in 2019. Including this year I have shown for almost 7 years ranging from horse gymkhanas, Arabian English shows, to dairy last year at fair and now adding market goat to the list. Even with 7 years of experience I am always growing my education in the livestock and the animal world. This year I decided to name my goat Tyler. I have learned a bunch of new skills raising a market goat this year such as personally feeding my animal twice a day and calculating all food intake, as well as how to properly take care of a market goat to have them fully prepared by the time fair came around. Once hearing about the cancellation of the in-person fair i became a little sad due to not being able to show my my first livestock animal and all of my hard work but while raising him durring this time, i have work numerous hours with my market goat taking him on many walks as well as this year i decided that i would have some extra fun and train him to jump a course to help build all his body muscle in the end, creating a well rounded looking market goat in many ways.

After receiving Market Goat placements, I received 1st place in my market weight class.

Thank you
